

construction & real estate

Commencing in 2009, Veris entered into a strategic alliance with Delta Consulting Group, Inc. (Delta) designed to enhance our consulting capabilities in the areas of construction and real estate, particularly forensic engineering and construction management.

Delta is an international consulting firm that provides forensic engineering and accounting, expert witness testimony and construction management services. Our strategic alliance combines the sophistication of Veris' forensic accounting practice with Delta's depth of experience and expertise in the areas of construction and real estate consulting.

The combined services that Veris and Delta will provide to our clients in the areas of construction and real estate consulting include:

- forensic accounting and engineering
- expert witness testimony
- complex damages calculations
- construction defect claims analysis
- scheduling and delay analysis
- project and construction management and advisory
- feasibility studies
- cost estimating/budgeting
- troubled project rescue and workouts
- bankruptcy/loan restructuring
- performance/payment bond claims and other surety consulting

Our experts have assisted numerous national and international clients in resolving complex construction and real estate disputes, through litigation, arbitration and other dispute resolution mechanisms.
